

Every day I wish on a star.
Wishing that I could always go far.
Far away into the deep dark bay.
Far away, where no one can say.
"All you do is sit around
Acting like, this is your playground"
I'm sorry, I'm sorry that I'm such a brat
It's just that I'm always filled
With emotions, no one can understand
Emotions that make me complicated
But then when one day as I am wishing
I see a boy that's always fishing
He fishes for my heart
He stands there and always waits
Every day, he makes me feel special
When he tries to open my heart's gates
Because he waits every day
He must want me to stay
I finally found my purpose in life
That makes me wanna stay alive
I know now that I matter in the end
And I'll never think like this again
Because no matter what you ever think
No one wants you to ever sink
Some magic words to make you think like this
"I matter, I matter" and that's all it is.

Everyone matters.