

I am "Me"

By: Lavanya Ravi

Look around and you will see
A world of people as vast as the sea
Each and every one is different
An adult, child, baby, or infant

Everyone has their talents
Each are wonderful to keep balance
And even I am unique
Following my own technique

I matter because I have my own style
From my thoughts, my actions, and even my own smile
I have my own view of life
And I have different times of achievements and strife

In this world I matter because I am myself Different from any one's self
I matter because I have people that support me
And who always make sure I am the best that I can be

The people of the world are like snowflakes
Each one is unique in their own special way
We all matter one way or another
As we share our experiences and feelings to each other

The more you like yourself,
the less you are like anyone else,
which makes you unique.
